ADMINISTRATION'S TRUST AND EXPANSION POLICY SCORED.

New York, July 4.—Tammany Hall today celebrated the 126th anniversary of American independence. The programme differed little from that of the Fourth of July celebrations held at the wigwam in former years. W. Bourke Cockran, who recently returned to the Tammany fold, delivered the principal address, and the other "long talk" was made by Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman.

Senator Vest of Missouri sent a letter of regret, in which he said:

Senator Vest of Missouri sent a letter of regret, in which he said:
"There has never been a time in the history of our country when the free institutions established by our fathers were in more peril than at present. The announcement is definitely made that we have outgrown the swaddling clothes of 1776, and must join the world powers in trampling upon human rights and the teachings of Washington and Jefferson."

William J. Bryan, in sending regrets, said: 'It is more important that we should discharge the duties of citizenship to strengthen our nation's charac ter and perpetuate our government, than that we should observe each re-curring anniversary of the nation's birth.

"There is a never-ending contest between human rights and man's un-bridled greed. Sometimes that greed creates one issue, sometimes another; but, whether it manifests itself in the tariff question, the money question, the trust question or imperialism, it is the trust question or imperialism, it is the same, for everywhere it tramples upon the inalienable rights of the citizen. "Tammany can help the Democratic party by throwing its organization upon the side of honest methods and upon the side of honest platforms—platforms which will set forth in clear and unambiguous language the people's side of every issue. "The astonishing and strenuous defense of General Wood in regard to the Cuban frauds contained in the recent harangue of the perambulating president of the United States on a non-partisan occasion, has fixed the responsibility for the crime upon the administration, which it cannot now avoid."

General Greely has designated a special board to consider what experiments in communication will be attempted at these maneuvers, and the question as to whether the forces will attempt to use a wireless

The navy department does not expect to use wireless telegraphy in the maneuvers this summer, as it has not yet

It is the hope and expectation of the officials that wireless communication can be made a part of the great naval manenvers which will take place in the Caribbean next winter.

Washington is going to be up-to-date in mail transmission facilities. At present the capital is decidedly behind the age in these matters. It takes longer to get a letter across the city from the capital to any of the departments than to get a letter transmitted from Washington to New York. A contract has been made for installation of pheumatic tube service between the capitol and the government printing office, and between the general postofice, the capitol and some of the department buildings. The pneumatic tube system is in operation in Boston. New York and Philadelphia and many of the larger European cities have been using this plan of mail transmission for several years. The installation of pneumatic tube service in Washington is regarded in the nature of an experiment, and upon its success or failure will be determined the future extension of the service to other cities or its abandonment.
